The Adams Hill Neighborhood in Glendale is known for its' charm, its' strong sense of community, and for its' gorgeous city views! This home is no exception. When the owners of this stunning home created and built their custom home in 2004, they spared no expense. They used the finest materials, high end appliances, and quality details throughout. This home presents an open floor plan oriented to capture the breathtaking views. The bedrooms are large and comfortable, with lots of windows to enjoy the light. The first floor features 16ft high Cathedral ceilings using the space to incorporate it into the beautiful design of the floor plan. There is plenty of room for a pool in the yard below. This home is beautiful inside and out.
